

CROWDED!

::

JAMMED!

::

RUSHED!

The store was not large enough to hold the crowds. We were forced to close our doors and serve people as fast as we could. Sorry we were obliged to turn away so many people, but we had to do it, but

The Bargains Were Worth Crowding After and The Good Thing Still Goes On!

More clerks to wait on you and better service now during The Arcade Quit Business Sale.

THE ARCADE,

Is Going Out of Business. Corner Main and Pearl Streets. Everything to Wear for Man, Woman or Child.

BARRE, VT.

NOTICE.

We make and sell Sugar Pails and Sprung Cans and do all kinds of Brass Trough Work and Tin Roofing, also Plumbing and Heating. Satisfaction guaranteed.

CARPENTER & WHITNEY.
Dunfee Place, - - - Telephone 37-2

STRIKE!

When you need first-class Groceries strike for Osborne's Store. We will give you the best of goods and treatment. Prices as low as any, consistent with quality.

J. R. OSBORNE, - - - East Barre, Vt.
Successor to R. J. Woodward.

Granite Quarry For Sale.

I am now authorized by order of Court to sell the Granite Quarry in Calais, known as the Wood Quarry, together with derricks, sweep, tools, etc. All equipped ready for business. Call on or address

C. A. GALE, Trustee,
Phone 147-12, 19 Barre St., Montpelier, Vt.

WOOD

The place to buy Wood. A large stock of all kinds at these prices:

Block Wood, per cord $3.00
Limb Wood, per load 2.50
Chair Wood, per load 2.25
Soft Wood Slabs 1.75
Furniture and Shed Wood.

I am prepared to do all kinds of moving and jobbing at reasonable rates. Coarse and fine sand for sale in any quantity. Coarse sand for cementing at my sandbank, Farwell street.

L. J. POLSTER,
Telephone 405-2,
393 North Main Street, Barre, Vermont.

LAST OF FAMOUS HOTEL.

The Old Fifth Avenue in New York and Some of Its Memories.

Saturday, April 4, was the last day of the Fifth Avenue hotel and the "Amen Corner." The hotel will soon be torn down and replaced by a skyscraper of office building. That Saturday afternoon about four o'clock for the first time in many months, and for the last time as well, ex-Governor and Republican "Boss" Benjamin C. Platt, Jr., and Senator Thomas C. Platt, also a former "boss" sat together in the "corner" for a little while, and greeted the men they have just there so often.

The closing of the hotel and the abolition of the "corner" is an event for a good many persons. For the last two weeks guests who have made the hotel their home for years have been moving out, not without much sorrow. Men and women from all parts of the country, for whom the hotel holds a pleasant memory, have been visiting it for the last time. Old employees have been bidding other old employees good-bye, and sightseers have been passing through just for the pleasure of being able to say years hence that they saw the "Amen Corner."

The auction sale of the furniture and fittings of the hotel will be held next Tuesday. In anticipation of this bids for certain of the articles to be sold have been received from all over the country. Many persons want to buy the marble step on which Blaine stood when he replied to Burghard's "rum rumanism and rebellion" speech. Others want to get one of the barroom chairs as a souvenir. One man has put in a bid for the ball that surrounded the hotel's flagpole.

One thing that will not be put up at auction, to the disappointment of many of the old customers of the hotel, is the small supply of bottled brandy of the vintage of 1799, which is in the cellar. Mr. Darling, one of the proprietors of the hotel, has decided to keep it for himself. The brandy was originally laid in the wood, in the old Revere house in Boston, and was brought to the Fifth Avenue by Parson Stevens about the time the hotel opened. Most of it was sold during the war and soon afterwards. The last barrel was bottled some years ago.

Among the visitors to the hotel yesterday were an elderly woman and a childless man. They asked to see room 703 and were accommodated. The man was born in that room, and the woman with him was his mother. He was the first child born in the hotel—New York Times.

Notice to the Public.

We are still running a public survey and meeting all trains. Telephone 232-4. Papp Bros.

THE BARRE DAILY TIMES

MONDAY, APRIL 13, 1908.

Insurance Was Invented So That the man who hasn't much but expects to get it if he lives, can do as well for his family as a man who has it, or has it left to him. 50th year. National Life Insurance Company, Montpelier, Vt. (Mutual).

S. S. Ballard, general agent, Montpelier; N. B. Ballard, local agent, Barre, Vt.

TALK OF THE TOWN.

Out flowers at Youngson's. Tel. 317-6. Any framed or unframed picture in the store at the wholesale price. H. P. Baldwin.

Typewriter desk, flat top, cost $11.00, and swivel chair, cost $3.50, both for $10.00. L. M. Averill.

Clairevoyant—Tuesday and Thursday, 2 p. m. to 9 p. m., Mrs. R. E. Ellis, 25 Spaulding street, telephone 154-21.

"The Eastern Herald," the popular Catholic family paper for this state, only $1.00 per year. Address, Rutland, Vt.

A very desirable office room with ante-room, centrally located on Main street, to rent. Terms low. Address "O. K.," this office.

To Rent—Two tenements, all modern improvements, at 48 and 50 South Main street. Inquire of John Tierney, 48 South Main street or 303 North Main street.

Any citizens willing to contribute money or open their homes for free entertainment of ministerial delegates to the Methodist conference, and any who wish to furnish meals or rooms at reasonable rates to visitors are requested to communicate by letter or telephone 211-3 to the pastor, Rev. E. O. Thayer, 15 French street.

One of the leading features of the Methodist conference to be held next week will be a lecture by Bishop Earl Cranston on the subject: "Jots and Joins in the Orient," Thursday, April 16. His thrilling experience in Japan and China will make the lecture very entertaining. As the bishop gives his services, the net receipts will help local expenses of the conference. The committee earnestly solicit the patronage of the public, as an evidence of hospitality. Tickets can be purchased for twenty-five cents with stores of B. W. Hooker and C. S. Andrews, on and after Monday, April 13.

Miss Alice Gove will stay with Mrs. Eben Gilson part of the summer.

Norman Colby nearly severed one toe while chopping for C. L. Slack Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Keyes of Woodville are at Mrs. Keyes' mother's, Mrs. Jane Ayers.

Mrs. Lucy Stiles came from Massachusetts Thursday to spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. W. A. Cooper.

The suit between Mrs. Ehrhardt and John Peck was watched from the commencement with intense interest by her many friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Slack and Mr. and Mrs. John Conway went to Northfield Thursday evening and were taken into the Eastern Star lodge.

Dyspepsia is America's curse. Burdock Blood Bitters conquers dyspepsia every time. It drives out impurities, tones the stomach, restores perfect digestion, normal weight, and good health.

Itching, bleeding, protruding or blind piles yield to Doan's Ointment. Chronic cases soon relieved, finally cured. Druggists all sell it.

Doan's Regulents cure constipation without griping, nausea, nor any weakening effect. Ask your druggist for them. 25 cents per box.

For any pain, from top to toe, from any cause, apply Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil. Pain can't stay where it is used.

Easter Excursion to New York.

Greatly reduced fares via the Central Vermont Railway, April 17th, '08. Your choice of two routes—all rail via Springfield, or via New London and steamer. Tickets good to return from New York up to and including April 27th. This is the most favorable time to visit New York.

See hand bills for particulars.

SOUTH BARRE.

Dance and whist party in Unity hall, South Barre, Saturday evening, April 11th.

STRAFFORD.

Sugar makers in this section are having quite a good season.

Thel isters are about town now, prying into people's financial secrets, for so large a tax as possible.

W. R. Sanborn and wife are away for a week's vacation in Greenfield, Mass., and in New York.

Mrs. Alvin Carpenter has been very ill, threatened with typhoid pneumonia, but is better at this writing.

Miss Nina Kendall of South Strafford went to Dickinson, N. Y., recently to attend the funeral of her uncle, Willard Caswell.

Mrs. McCulloch and son, Brinton, are at home at South Strafford, from Hanover, N. H., where he is a student at Dartmouth.

After an absence of several months in Boston, Miss Nellie Robinson has returned and is at work in the family of H. A. Stickney.

Fred Hazleton, who had a felon on one of his fingers a couple of weeks ago, is yet under the doctor's care, and unable to do any work.

Rolfie Titus, member of the corps of engineers of the Bellows Falls Canal Co., is on a vacation, visiting at Mrs. Jeannette Bacon's.

Mrs. McDonnell and her two children have been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Chase, and have returned to their home in Chelsea.

Mrs. W. M. Flanders of South Barre and her daughter, Hazel, have come to H. G. Silway's for the summer. Mrs. Flanders and Mrs. Silway are sisters.

Miss Elsie Norris of Strafford, and Mary Russell of South Strafford, who have been at home from Goddard seminary on a vacation, have returned for another term.

The Congregational church recently forwarded its annual offering, amounting to $32.00, for home mission work, state and national, to Rev. C. H. Merrill, St. Johnsbury.

Frank Brown has been appointed as school director by the selectmen, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of H. L. Hatch, elected at the last March town meeting.

Several persons in town have purchased a copy each of the Vermont Revised Statutes, which arrived a few days ago, and other free copies at the town clerk's office, and have since been distributed.

Alfred Brown, injured recently by a tree falling on him while at work for Arthur Lyman in Hartford, has come to his home in this town. He is slowly recovering from the injury received, but is yet unable to do any heavy work.

Thirty or more persons came together in the Free Baptist vestry one evening last week to get sweetened up with the delicious maple honey which is quite abundant here at the present writing. A pleasant time was enjoyed by all present.

The Ladies' Circle of the Congregational church have recently been putting together quilts, making new sheets and pillow cases, and collecting clothing and other articles, new and second hand, to send a barrel to the Tuskegee Institute, Alabama.

Earl Crane closed his labors in the store of H. H. Udall on Saturday last. He is expecting a visit this week from his cousin, J. H. Rivers of Burlington, who is taking a course of study at the St. Michael's classical and commercial college, Winoski, Vt.

Miss Mary Cummings came home from the Moody school at Northfield, Mass., recently because of illness from the grippe. She is a member of the senior class and would have graduated next June, but is unable to return, and will be compelled to fall back a year.

The friends of Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Bennett will be pained to learn that on the 26th of March, just two weeks after their landing in England, the father of Mrs. Bennett died. He had been very feeble for some time, and it was fortunate that Mr. and Mrs. Bennett sailed when they did, for Mrs. Bennett was especially fond of her father, and many times while in the parlor at South Strafford, expressed an earnest desire to go home that she might see him again before his death.

He Got What He Needed.

"Nine years ago it looked as if my time had come," says Mr. G. Farthing of Mill Creek, Ind. "I was so run down that life hung on a very slender thread. It was then my druggist recommended Electric Bitters. I bought a bottle and I got what I needed—strength. I had one foot in the grave, but Electric Bitters put it back on the turf again, and I've been well ever since." Sold under guarantee at Ros Crowe Pharmacy.

RANDLOPH

Slight Scratch Results in Blood Poison For Elmer Montgomery.

Elmer Montgomery, who is employed as one of the rural free delivery carriers, met with a slight accident by the scratching of his little finger, which at the time was considered of no consequence. Later it became very much inflamed and swollen and it was necessary to open it and scrape the bone. Blood poisoning is feared and unless it improves soon amputation will be necessary. Mr. Montgomery seems unfortunate having just partially recovered from a trouble with the knee, which has obliged him to be on crutches all winter and he has the sympathy of all.

Mrs. Susie C. Gabrielle went to Bethel on Saturday for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Chadwick.

Mrs. John Abbott and her children returned to Winchester, Mass., on Saturday after spending two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Sanford.

Mrs. J. G. Sargent went to Bethel on Sunday to call upon her son, Frances Sargent, who is at work for W. C. Clifford at the Woodbury Granite sheds as bookkeeper.

Mr. Lyman Rix returned from Concord last Friday afternoon, but a message from the friends of his uncle, Truman Gilson, called him back on the night train. On his arrival his uncle was alive but his death is hourly expected.

Maple sugar is to be had in great abundance this spring, the season being the best for many years. George Flint has made more than 125 gallons at present and Mr. Ryan, who lives on the Cushman farm, has made about 900 pounds of sugar while others have made an equal amount.

Roy Clayton and Miss Versa, only daughter of D. B. Cassidy of this village were married at the home of the bride on Thursday evening, April 9th, at half past seven by the Rev. W. A. Bradshaw. Only the immediate family and friends witnessed the ceremony. The bride has lived in town since childhood and the groom wishes of all are extended to her in this new relation. Mr. Clayton was a former resident of Stowe, but since last July has been in town, where they will reside for the present.

CABOT.

Sude Atkins is in Barre, waiting.

B. G. Rogers went to Boston Monday to buy goods.

Mrs. William McTier is visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Clough's.

Otto Bates of Montpelier was here over Sunday visiting his cousin, Elton Lance.

Emma Collins has returned from Barre where she spent the greater part of the winter.

The opera "Pauline" will be given in the town hall April 20 and May 1, having an entire new outfit of scenery.

George Reed has painted a scene for the town hall. It will be used for the first time at the opera the last of the month.

Mrs. J. T. Drew and daughter, Marian returned from Hartford, Conn., Tuesday, where they have been visiting relatives for the past four weeks.

Lewis Stone, who has been in Burlington at the hospital studying to become a nurse, graduated there last week and is home here for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walbridge gave a sugar party at their sugar house Friday afternoon to the village people. A fine time was had, the afternoon being spent with playing games and eating sugar.

CHELSEA

Hale K. Darling left Friday afternoon for Boston on a few days' business trip.

Mrs. Emily Bacon of South Washington is in town for a few days, a guest at W. H. Sprague's.

Mrs. Alva O'Donnell and two children were in Strafford last week visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Chase.

Curtis Hall, who has been seriously ill for several days, threatened with pneumonia, is slightly improved.

Mrs. Josie Longue has moved from the P. J. Little home on the East hill to George M. Medical's tenement house on the Vershire road.

Miss Wealthy Stoughton has returned to her home in South Roylston after a visit of two weeks to her grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Cleveland.

Tom Floyd of Manchester, N. H., who has been working for Fred E. Goodwin, has completed his services and his place is taken by Milo Sanborn.

Chief Ranger Hale Matteson and Financial Secretary Clarence H. Corlies of Court Chelsea, I. O. F., were in Montpelier recently to attend a special meeting of high court officers.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Our Thankful Neighbors.

Thank goodness there is one thing the Barre Times does not claim, and that is Barre Town's fire losses—Montpelier Argus.

Has Proctor's Ideas.

At no time since President Roosevelt was out of has there been any doubt that Vermont would send an unimpaired delegation to the Republican national convention. As far as the personal preferences of the delegates likely to be selected are concerned, they will probably be about equally divided between Taft and Hughes as first choice for the nomination.—Rutland News.

Injunction Against Separators.

The United States circuit court for the southern district of New York has issued an injunction against Sears, Roebuck & Co., of Chicago, preventing its selling the infringing separator, known as the "Economy" and "The Improved Economy." This injunction prohibits the company from selling or advertising for the sale of these infringing separators.

The ruling of the United States court state that the patent, which was infringed, belongs to the Vermont Farm Machine Co., of Bellows Falls, and to the Empire Separator Co., of Bloomfield, N. Y.

The ruling of the United States court on this point was broad, and not only makes Sears, Roebuck & Co., liable for the infringement, but also holds that these infringing separators are equally liable. In other words, every farmer in the United States who bought and uses one of these "Economy" cream separators, is liable for infringement, and the only way for them to avoid being implicated in this case and laying themselves liable to violation of the United States court injunction is to at once discontinue the use of these infringing separators.

It is said that no user of these machines need think they can escape being found out, because one of the sections in the ruling of the United States court, reads as follows: "Ordered, adjudged, and decreed that it be referred to Samuel M. Hitchcock, Esq., one of the masters of this court, to ascertain take state, and report to this court an account of the number of all centrifugal separating apparatus and the said defendant and its confederates in infringement of each or any of the said claims of said letters patent and to whom sold and at what price."

It will be seen by this section that the concerns, owning these patents, through a ruling of the court, will know exactly who have bought these infringing machines from Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Retail merchants who have been selling the Iowa Dairy Separator Co.'s machines have occasion to look out that they too are not implicated in this matter.

More About Barnes.

If there is any opposition to Judge Barnes in Addison county, it has not appeared on the surface to any great extent. Of course, where there are two candidates for the same office from the same county and one withdraws, there are always some who are dissatisfied with the turn of affairs. The only real opposition to Judge Barnes in the state to-day is in Rutland county, and it is very natural that Rutland county should give its votes to its own candidate, just as they did four years ago. Judge Barnes' name will be presented to the state convention backed by the solid support of his county and his friends will be surprised if he doesn't receive votes from every county in the state. He is recognized as the logical candidate and being so well qualified for the position, his nomination to the office can properly be expected.—Vermont.

Those Five Pardons.

The Herald has expected, from day to day, that Attorney General Fitts would take Vermont into his confidence and issue a report upon the cases of Norris Hennessy, William Mack, John Carter, William Hayden and William Burke, who were sentenced to terms in the house of correction by Justice B. E. Cole of Windsor and brought to prison by Officer S. S. Taylor.

These men, after representing their cases to the governor and having their papers of incarceration inspected by the chief executive of the state and permitted to go their ways. Here is a faint admission that a wrong has been done. Here is the almost absolute pardoning power of the governor invoked and yet not a word that gives the slightest premise to any one that the officers guilty of the wrong shall be punished.

If Hennessy, Mack and the others applied to the town authorities at Wind-

STORIES OF LONDON CLUBS.

Why Thackeray Blackballed a Candidate—Garrick Gin Punch.

Major Arthur Griffiths tells a story apropos of the whimsical objections sometimes raised by members to candidates. The story is about Thackeray and the Garrick club. A man of fortune, named Hill, self-made but illiterate, who sometimes went astray with his h's, was a candidate for election. "I pilled him because he is a liar," said Thackeray. "He calls himself 'ill' when he isn't."

Theodore Hook was one of the Garrick's most famous members. He generally arrived at the club late in the afternoon and "never went home till morning." He had been told by the doctors, he said to avoid the night air. A member of the club in Hook's time predicted the advent of the millennium at the end of three years. "All right," cried Hook, "give me a £5 note now and I will repay you £25 at the millennium."

Apart, however, from the notabilities who have been members of the Garrick—and they include almost everybody who has been anybody, in art and the drama especially during the last eighty years—the Garrick was, and is, esteemed for its good cooking. Two famous things are still to be obtained—gin punch and the Garrick steak. The recipe of the first is to pour half a pint of gin on the outer peel of a lemon, then add a little fresh lemon juice, a glass of water, and two bottles of ice soda water, with two pints of punch as the result. The Garrick steak is made by putting through the sirloin, and the flat piece produced contains both the upper cut and the under cut.

At the Athenaeum club—sixty-nine members of which, it has been calculated, have been buried in Westminster abbey and thirty-two in St. Paul's—a feature in the feeding was the "Asian Sunday" as some one styled it, when curry and rice always appeared on the bill of fare. Another popular dinner was that which provided marrowbones and jam roly-poly puddings.

Although the members of the big clubs are most fastidious in regard to the cuisine, the average salary paid to the chef is said to be only between £200 and £300. A particularly onerous responsibility is that imposed upon the wine butler. In the old aristocratic clubs such large quantities of table silver are being constantly handled that the utmost precautions are necessary to prevent disappearance. The whole of the silver out is checked and counted over every night when the day's work is done, and no servant is at liberty to leave the house until the tally is reported correct.

The value of the possessions of the best clubs does not end with the silver plate. The furniture of the Oxford and Cambridge Club, for instance, is valued at nearly £20,000; the books and maps in the library are worth over £10,000, while a similar amount would not buy the wine in the cellar.

Fifteen years ago the library of the Athenaeum was entered on the books as having cost £20,125, its stock of wine being put at nearly £4000. The wine stock of the Reform Club is valued at over £10,000, while the Junior Carlton keeps no less than £27,000 worth of wines, spirits, etc., on the premises. By the way, the value of the property of the later club, at the corner of Piccadilly and St. James's, is estimated at £225,000.

Versatile.
"She has a very versatile pen."
"Yes; I've seen her use it for pulling out beating threads and mauling her nails."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

One Sure One.
Said the popular book, "If notes talk, however thoughts are bent, how frivolous may be my theme, I always do keep them."
—Baltimore American.

Remembered Him Too Well.
"Did young Skunkie's uncle remember him when he made his will?"
"Must have. Didn't leave him anything."—Browning's Magazine.

One Sure One.
Said the popular book, "If notes talk, however thoughts are bent, how frivolous may be my theme, I always do keep them."
—Baltimore American.

Remembered Him Too Well.
"Did young Skunkie's uncle remember him when he made his will?"
"Must have. Didn't leave him anything."—Browning's Magazine.

One Sure One.
Said the popular book, "If notes talk, however thoughts are bent, how frivolous may be my theme, I always do keep them."
—Baltimore American.

Remembered Him Too Well.
"Did young Skunkie's uncle remember him when he made his will?"
"Must have. Didn't leave him anything."—Browning's Magazine.

One Sure One.
Said the popular book, "If notes talk, however thoughts are bent, how frivolous may be my theme, I always do keep them."
—Baltimore American.

Remembered Him Too Well.
"Did young Skunkie's uncle remember him when he made his will?"
"Must have. Didn't leave him anything."—Browning's Magazine.

One Sure One.
Said the popular book, "If notes talk, however thoughts are bent, how frivolous may be my theme, I always do keep them."
—Baltimore American.

Remembered Him Too Well.
"Did young Skunkie's uncle remember him when he made his will?"
"Must have. Didn't leave him anything."—Browning's Magazine.

One Sure One.
Said the popular book, "If notes talk, however thoughts are bent, how frivolous may be my theme, I always do keep them."
—Baltimore American.

Remembered Him Too Well.
"Did young Skunkie's uncle remember him when he made his will?"
"Must have. Didn't leave him anything."—Browning's Magazine.

One Sure One.
Said the popular book, "If notes talk, however thoughts are bent, how frivolous may be my theme, I always do keep them."
—Baltimore American.

STORIES OF LONDON CLUBS.

Why Thackeray Blackballed a Candidate—Garrick Gin Punch.

Major Arthur Griffiths tells a story apropos of the whimsical objections sometimes raised by members to candidates. The story is about Thackeray and the Garrick club. A man of fortune, named Hill, self-made but illiterate, who sometimes went astray with his h's, was a candidate for election. "I pilled him because he is a liar," said Thackeray. "He calls himself 'ill' when he isn't."

Theodore Hook was one of the Garrick's most famous members. He generally arrived at the club late in the afternoon and "never went home till morning." He had been told by the doctors, he said to avoid the night air. A member of the club in Hook's time predicted the advent of the millennium at the end of three years. "All right," cried Hook, "give me a £5 note now and I will repay you £25 at the millennium."

Apart, however, from the notabilities who have been members of the Garrick—and they include almost everybody who has been anybody, in art and the drama especially during the last eighty years—the Garrick was, and is, esteemed for its good cooking. Two famous things are still to be obtained—gin punch and the Garrick steak. The recipe of the first is to pour half a pint of gin on the outer peel of a lemon, then add a little fresh lemon juice, a glass of water, and two bottles of ice soda water, with two pints of punch as the result. The Garrick steak is made by putting through the sirloin, and the flat piece produced contains both the upper cut and the under cut.

At the Athenaeum club—sixty-nine members of which, it has been calculated, have been buried in Westminster abbey and thirty-two in St. Paul's—a feature in the feeding was the "Asian Sunday" as some one styled it, when curry and rice always appeared on the bill of fare. Another popular dinner was that which provided marrowbones and jam roly-poly puddings.

Although the members of the big clubs are most fastidious in regard to the cuisine, the average salary paid to the chef is said to be only between £200 and £300. A particularly onerous responsibility is that imposed upon the wine butler. In the old aristocratic clubs such large quantities of table silver are being constantly handled that the utmost precautions are necessary to prevent disappearance. The whole of the silver out is checked and counted